2026 FOCUS ON FAMILY AND DISABILITY SEMINAR SERIES

The 2nd Tuesday of the Month, 12:00 Noon – 1:30 pm

Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities and Palliative Care: Integrating Comfort, Support, and Accessibility

A live-stream presentation by
Melissa Levin, MSW, LICSW
January 13, 2026 | 12:00–1:30 pm

This presentation will explore the concept of palliative care, including its continuum for individuals with chronic, noncurative, and end-of-life illnesses. Attendees will learn how disability-affirming approaches can make palliative care more accessible and foster meaningful partnerships with individuals with developmental disabilities. Practical resources will be shared, along with two case examples to illustrate key concepts. The session will include small-group breakouts for deeper discussion and reflection.

COST $25

- Discounts and scholarships available to eligible participants.*
- Fee Waived for current UNC-SSW students, staff, faculty, field instructors, and task supervisors.*
- Additional $6 for category A credit for psychologists.

*For available coupon codes, discounts and scholarships, send email to finnigan@unc.edu

LIVE STREAMING ONLY – All seminars are provided through live-stream via Zoom.

LEARNING OPPORTUNITY: JANUARY 13, 12-1:30

People with Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities are often left out of important life planning. When individuals have chronic, noncurative and end of life illnesses, this planning is even more crucial for them to take part in. Join us as we talk about accessibility in palliative care for individuals with disabilities.

Families and Community Members can click HERE to register for free.
